THE BRITISH ARE IN PRETORIA.

FLAG WENT UP YESTERDAY AT FIVE

The Troops Met With a Much More Enthusiastic Reception Than Had Been Anticipated—Several Officers Who Had Been Prisoners Were Onlookers.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, June 6. — Lord Roberts cables this morning:

"Pretoria, June 5, 5:35 p. m.—The occupation of the town passed off most satisfactorily. The British flag is now hoisted on top the Government office. The troops met a much more enthusiastic reception than had been anticipated. The third battalion of Grenadier Guards lined the square when the march past took place. Owing to their having been on duty some distance from town very few cavalry and infantry were able to take part in the ceremony. Several of our officers who had been prisoners were among the onlookers."

A BIG TIMBER SYNDICATE.

American Car Company to Build Extensive Works at Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., June 5—Martin A. Sullivan has returned from Detroit, where in conference with Russell A. Alger and associates the details of the Alger-Sullivan timber syndicate were perfected. The syndicate owns immense tracts of land in Alabama, within easy access to Pensacola. They will establish large mills there, making this city headquarters for exports to foreign markets.

One hundred thousand dollars will be at once expended in improving Sullivan's Wharf. The American Car Company, of Detroit, will also build extensive works here for manufacturing railroad cars and will employ hundreds of skilled workmen. Mr. Alger says the cost of raw material for construction of cars here will not be half what the same material would cost delivered at Detroit. Consequently they can build cars at lower prices and greater profits.

Dr. Venable Elected President.

Chapel Hill, June 5—The annual meeting of the board of trustees was held this afternoon, Governor Russell presiding. Dr. Alderman's resignation was accepted and Dr. Francis Preston Venable, professor of chemistry, was unanimously elected president of the University on the first ballot Thomas Ruffin, of Wilson, was elected associate professor of law, and J. Crawford Biggs, associate professor of the summer law school.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Portland, Ore., June 5—Complete returns from 22 counties out of the 33 in the State show that in yesterday's elections the Republicans carried the head of the ticket by at least 8,000 plurality. Returns so far give Wolverton, Republican, for justice of the Supreme Conrt, a pluralty of 7,951. The Republicans will control both branches of the Legislature and will have a majority.

To Widen the Road.

The property owners living along the road leading out from Summit avenue, which is being macadamized, are anxious to increase the width of the macadam roadbed from 12 to 16 feet. They laid the matter before the county commissioners, who went out yesterday and inspected the road. The commisioners made the property owners a proposition and it is probable the roadbed will be widened.

One Week From Tonight.

The Southside Hose Company will give a lawn party next Wednesday night—just one week off. The best and most delicious cake, cream, etc., will be served by the most attractive young ladies of the Southside, and a pleasant evening is assured all who may attend. The firemen will appreciate the patronage of their friends.

Negroes and the Census.

Winston Sentinel-

Some of the negroes seem to have an idea that the taking of the census is in some way connected with the proposed constitutional amendment in this State. It is said that several have asked if this is not true. One thing that makes the negro think there is something in it is the question as to whether they can read and write.

ON TO LYNCHBURG.

An Excursion From High Point---Notes and Personals.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

High Point, June 6 —Lewis Harris, better known to his friends as "Feet," is in town again after an absence of several months. He looks as natural as ever.

W. G. Winston, of Baltimore, who is kindly remembered by his friends here, was in town yesterday talking business to our merchants.

Most everybody is talking excursion these days. Of the places named Lynchburg, Va., seems to be the favorite point with a majority of the people. Let us go out of the State this time if it does cost a little more. The large number that wauld go to Lynchburg would more than make up for the extra cost of the train. On to Lynchburg!

Contractor D. H. Baker has commenced work on W. T. Kirkman's residence in the western part of town.

Harry Field has acdepted a position in the office of the Eagle Furniture Company.

EARLY MORNING MARRIAGE.

Miss Smith and Mr. Thomas Join Hands and Hearts.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Willie Smith, on West Gaston street, this morning at 7 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss May Eannie, was joined in marriage to Mr. Richard Greene Thomas. A large company of friends, a number of whom were from out of town, witnessed the plighting of their troth.

The wedding party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's march, skillfully rendered by Miss Carrie Smith of Summerfield. The groom was attended by his best man, Dr. John H. Wheeler. The bride was handsomely attired in a going-away gown of castor cloth, entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. W. T. Smith, who gave her away

Miss Nannie Lee Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The simple but pretty ceremony of the Metoodist church was used, the impressive words being said by Rev. J. C. Rowe.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were driven to the Southern passenger station, where they took the southbound train for Ashville. They will spend some time in this delightful mountain city.

The bride and groom were the recipients of numerous presents, handsome testimonals of the high esteem in which they are held by their friends.

An Obstreperous Negro.

Hugh Gibson, a bad negro, tried to make trouble on the Raleigh train this morning just before it pulled out from the depot. He was drinking and acting the bully, using loud and profane language. When the conductor remonstrated with him he became abusive and threatened to shoot any man who interferred with him. About this time Officer Pearce took a hand in the affair and locked the negro up. On his person were found a pistol and a pair of knucks.

The Cossacks took part in the battle, aiding the Imperial forces. The situation is grave and growing worse. Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press.

Love is a longing for something you can't get till it gets you.

No man is fit to be a husband till he has got over being a lover.

Ask a woman to let you kiss her when she has her veil on, and she will always raise it up so she can say 'No' plainer.

The world is divided into two classes —people you hope to get something out of and people who hope to get something out of you.

It Would Depend.

Boston Transcript.

Employer—According to you credentials, you are a man of unimpeachable honesty. How much wages do you ask?

Honest Applicant—Tthat depends. If you have a cash register in the shop I should have to ask $25 a week. If there is no register I might be satisfied with $15.

The Clerks Thought So Too.

Detroit Free Press.

A little girl, 6 years old, accompanied her mother on a shopping expedition one day. Noticing that they went to a great many stores for one article, finally, on coming out of the last store without it, exclaimed: "Why mama, you are so unsuitable."

A Negro Tortured.

Mobile Ala., June 5—The negro Askew, who was taken from jail last night, was submitted to revolting torture in an attempt to make him confess the murder of Christine Winterstein. He was whipped, hung until about dead and then was set afire. He was badly burned, but reiterated his innocence.

MR. WITHERS RESIGNS.

Closing of Elizabeth College Commencement---Election of Superintendent and Teachers.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, June 5—The resignation of Alderman J. S. Withers was quite a surpries here today. During the recent primaries in which Mr. Withers was nominated for cotton weigher, he was under quite a heavy cross fire, many claiming that he could not legally hold two offices at the same time. At the time the matter did not amount to anything serious but as he has been elected cotton weigher Mr. Withers now thinks it best for him to resign his place on the board of aldermen.

Elizabeth College closed today. The final commencemennt exercises took place at 11 o'clock. The valedictorian was Miss Maud Scheffer, first honor graduate in A B. course.

The diplomas were awarded by Dr. A. C. Barron. Music distinctions and certificates were awarded by Dr. Fisher, the musical director.

Miss Daisy Stewart, of Charlotte, took first honor in the B. L. course.

A feature of the exercises was the rendition of "Day Break," an original musical composition, by Miss Emmie Hains.

At the meeting of the board of aldermen last night a resolution was introduced by Alderman Franklin and unanimously adopted that Charlotte issue $25,000 in bonds to clear all indebtedness on the city.

The school board met this afternoon to elect the superintendent and teachers for the coming year. Mr. Alex. Graham, the present superintendent, was unanimously reelected and now begins his thirteenth year here. Prof. J. A. Bivins was elected principal of the new school now being erected in the eastern part of the city. The teachers will be assigned to their grades later.

THE QUEEN DRINKS A TOAST.

A Great Bonfire Lighted and the Nation Turbulently Rejoicing.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, June 6.—Queen Victoria, surrounded by the Duke and Duchess of York, Princess Christian, Princess Victoria and many other notables of her court, drank to the health of Lord Roberts and the army, at Balmoral, last evening. A great bonfire, lighted at Her Majesty's command, blazed on Craiggown mountain, illuminating the countryside for miles around. The nation joins in the toast, glorifying Lord Roberts and turbulently rejoicing in his victory.

The dispatch of Lord Roberts telling of the incidents before the surrendering of the capital stands alone, as the correspondents with him have not yet had their turn with the wires.

Lord Roberts' postscripts announcing the loss of the Yoemanry Battalion came too late for the public to know it last evening. The newspaper commentators consider the incident deplorable, but as having no weight to speak of in the results. The battalion numbered between 400 and 500 men. General Botha and most of his men got away from Pretoria. This is inferred from Lord Roberts' message, but the presumption is that the Boer commandant general cannot escape the British dispositions without a fight.

The Messenger says that citizens of Washington (N. C.) were witnesses of a fight in the suburbs of that town a few days ago, the cause of which was quite out of the ordinary. A colored funeral had been in progress and as the pallbearers were returning from the cemetery a dispute arose as to which one of the pallbears toted the heaviest side of the corpse, and it was not many minutes before blows were exchanged.

A few years ago Mr. J. C. Short, a freight conductor on the C. F. & Y. V., was injured in a wreck. Later he entered suit for damages to the extent of $6,000, the case coming up for a hearing at the last June term of Superior Court. MR. KITCHIN TO GO TO BUFFALO.

WILL ATTEND KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

Judge Ewart Having Failed of Confirmation, No Longer Holds the Seat—Talk of Adams and Pritchard—Visitors Still Going to the White House.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, June 6.—Members of both Houses of Congress anticipating the adjournment tonight, are making active arrangements to leave the city for their homes. After final adjournment very few members will be found in Washington. The Virginia and North Carolina members will nearly all be out of Washington within a day or two after adjournment.

It is announced that Representative Kitchin, of North Carolina, shortly after adjournment of Congress will go to Buffalo, New York, for the purpose of attending the meeting of the Knights of Honor, of which organization he is an active member. Hon. Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina, has already returned to his home at Asheville, and will not come back to Washington, it is said, before adjournment. All of the other members of the North Carolina delegation will return to their respective homes shortly after adjournment.

Of the members of the Virginia delegation, Mr. Lamb of Richmond, will return to Richmond. Mr. Wise, Congressman Otey, Jones and Lassiter, will all return immediately to their homes in the State.

Many of the members of the Senate and House anticipating adjournment today have returned to their homes and will not come back to Washington until after the Presidential election in November. The visitors at the White House yesterday was again large, the number being almost equal to that of Monday. The scenes at the Mansion are interesting, and the President is kept busy bidding members good bye, and signing belated measures which come to him at this final stage of the session.

The failure of the Senate to confirm the nomination of Judge Ewart, is said to be a bitter disappointment to both himself and friends. The adjournment of Congress tonight, of course precludes his holding the position longer, as his commission expires with this session of Congress, and it is said on the highest authority that he will not be reappointed. There is some talk that in the event of the defeat of Judge Adams for the Governership of the State that he may be appointed Judge of the Western district of North Carolina. The name of Senator Pritchard is also being promiently mentioned in connection with the vacancy. It is rumored that in the event of Republican defeat in the old North State, that Senator Pritchard, would come forward as a prominent candidate for the judgeship.

This appointment is one of the best to be given in North Carolina, and in the event of the election of Bryan, the Democrats in the Senate might attempt to stave off confirmation of any one until after the inauguration of the next President. There are many who believe that this appointment eventually may go to a Democrat.

Judge Strother, of Giles, Virginia, the well known Virginian is in the city. The Judge although a Republican gained some renoun by his opposition to General James A. Walker in the last Congressional campaign. He is in the city on personal business, and will remain here for several days. While in Washington the Judge is making his headquarters at the Metropolitan Hotel, where he generally stops when in the city.

The Latest Airship.

Scientists, geniuses, mechanics, philosophers and cranks are still trying to solve the problem of aerial navigation. Whether any one of them will soon succeed or whether the question is to remain unanswered for years, no one can safely predict. Thus far some problems have been overcome, but not all. The latest device is the Pickering air ship, an illustration of the working model of which is shown herewith. It is claimed it can be steered, raised or lowered, and speeded against a strong wind. The inventor is confident of its success. But he is not yet quite ready to take his initial voyage.

MAY A MAN SELECT HIS SUNDAY

REV. MR. JOHNSON THINKS HE MAY.

An Elaboration of the Views Expressed Last Sunday Regarding the Punishment of a Man Who Works on Sunday—Suppose the Law Said You Should Work Five Days?

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I am glad to see the Telegram's kind dissent from something said in the pulpit of Washington Street church Sunday. Am glad to see it because it shows that we are getting past the time when every utterance from the pulpit will be taken as infallible. Men are manifesting more of the spirit of the noble Bereans, who "received the Word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures daily, whether these things were so." He who stands in the pulpit, however, should be as careful of his statements as if they were to be received as infallible. He may be mistaken but, he should sincerely believe that what he says is in accordance with God's word. In his very courteous editorial, the editor of the Telegram accords all this to the speaker of last Sunday. Suffer me space for a word, not for controversy, but to amplify the statement made in the sermon. The Telegram accurately reported what was said, but as it was only incidental to the subject, there was not time to enlarge upon it.

In the eternal principle set forth by Christ in his answer to the Herodians, "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's," we have the truth taught, that the Christian is under obligation to perform civil as well as religious duties. These must be kept forever separate and distinct, and there must be no conflict between them. Should conflict arise the civil must always give way to the religious, just as our State laws must be set aside if they conflict with Federal laws.

Now with this principle clearly in mind, let us come to this discussion. The Sabbath is a religious institution. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," is one of the commandments. It was seen that the observance of the Sabbath was for man's good physically, and for that reason it was made a civil institution. As the editor of the Telegram well remarks, the State has a rignt to set apart one day in seven as a civil institution, and it has a right to enforce the observance of one day in seven, as such. A man who will not observe any day as the Sabbath, either as a religious or civil institution, should be made, by the laws of the State, to observe the day set apart as a civil institution. On that point we are perfectly agreed. But the question at issue is this: If a man conscientiously observes one day in seven as a religious institution, has the State a right to force him to observe another day as a civil institution? My contention is that it has not. Most of those living in Christian lands believe that the first day of the week should be left as the Christian Sabbath, while a few as earnestly believe that the last day should still be our Sabbath. The Jewish Sabbath began Friday at sunset and ended Saturday at sunset. The Lord arose on the first day of the week, since which glorious event most of His followers observe that day as the Sabbath. But there are a few who just as sincerely believe the seventh day is the true Sabbath as we do that the first day is the Sabbath. I do not hold with their views, but I respect their convictions.

It seems to me to be a great hardship for the law to force a man to observe the first day of the week while his conscience forces him to observe the seventh. There is more than a mere loss of time, there is a sacred principle involved. Let us revert to the 4th commandment, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is a Sabbath with the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work." Some believe that the command to work six days, is as binding as the command to rest the seventh Now if that be true, for civil law to say to a man "you can only work five days in the week," while the divine command is "Six days shalt thou labor," is to cause conflict between the civil and divine. It also brings conflict between the law and the very foundation of our government. This government guarantees to a man the protection of life, liberty and property. Liberty of conscience is the most sacred liberty to man.

The Jewish officials told Peter and John they must not preach Jesus any more. They replied, "Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things that we have heard and seen." These were law abiding citizens, so long as human law didn't contravene divine law, but when it did, and its observance fettered their conscience, they said "we cannot obey it."

Now I think the law has a perfect right to say to a man who observes the seventh day, "You must not prevent other people from observing their Sabbath." Their right must be protected as well as his. The charge, however, should not be that he is violating the Sabbath, but he is preventing other people from observing their Sabbath. If such a man strictly and conscientiously observes Saturday as his Sabbath, and works quietly on his own premises, on our Sabbath, I don't see how he is interfering with the rights of other people. In all this I have not had in mind so much the special case referred to as the great principle involved. This special case was used merely as an illustration.

It will be seen that in most of this, the Editor and the writer of this article are in perfect accord, and, as he suggests, when the different points of view are considered there is no difference; but this gave me the opportunity to speak a word for the great principle of soul liberty for which I shall ever contend, and for which the denomination that I have the honor to represent went through fire and blood.

THE LONLIEST WOMAN.

She's From Washington and Lives Among the Seals.

Without doubt the loneliest woman—that is to say, the one furthest removed from her kind—in all these United States of America, is Mrs. Clark of Washington, the wife of Major E. W. Clark, Government agent of the Pribylof or Seal Islands in the Behring Sea.

This group, composed of the two small islands of St. Paul and St. George, are the homes of nearly all the seals remaining in existence, and they are about 1,800 miles west of the entrance of Puget Sound, and about 200 miles northwest of the Aleutian Islands, beginning at Unimak Pass. St. George, which is the smaller of the two, being about 6 by 12 miles in extent, is 40 miles from St. Paul, and it has a population of about 100 Aleuts and four or five whites, consisting of Major Clark and his wife, a physician, and two or three clerks of the North American Commercial Company, which controls the seal business, and has stores and warehouses on both islands. The little village of St. George contains 25 or 50 houses, including the company's buildings, the agent's house and a Greek church.

There are no other houses on the islands, and Mrs. Clark is the only white woman. Her home is a small cottage of four rooms, very cozy and comfortable, with books and pictures, and a fine outlook over the sea. She does no cooking in her own home, as the Government officials take their meals at the company house near by. Mrs. Clark's nearest neighbor is the wife of the agent on St. Paul, who is less lonely because she has with her two small children, Mrs. Clark's children being grown and having their own homes in the States.

There is no communication between the islands, except by one of the company's ships and by revenue cutters, as other ships are not permitted to visit the islands. These ships come only in the summer, and from October until June Mrs. Clark does not expect to see any one or hear anything from the United States, or to send word home, no matter what happens. Sickness, death, disaster may come to her far off in that forbidding sea, or may visit her own at home, but no word may come or go until navigation is resumed.

St. George is absolutely without trees, but its rolling surface and mountains, 1,000 feet high, are beautifully green with coarse grass and moss, and wild flowers of brilliant hues dot the level stretches near the sea. Blue foxes abound, and over the rocks at the water's edge thousands and thousands of seals in ceaseless activity dissport themselves noisily day and night, from June until December, while millions of water fowl fill the air and the sea and flutter about the cliffs. Three hundred days in the year the weather is dark and dismal, and fogs hide the islands for days at a time. The cold is never excessive, but the winter storms are severe, and terrific gales sweep over sea and land. There is no harbor, and ships come to anchor a mile or more from shore.—Washington Star.

Gambling in the Six Nations.

The Indians of the Six Nations will not play cards, for these were brought to this country by the white man, and would have evil for the Indian. They also look upon the violin as an instrument that has led white young people to harm and will not permit its music to be heard among them.

The gambling game played at these religious festivals is the peach-stone game. I have brought back several of them. The Indians lose all their stoicism when indulging in this game.

One of the most impressive things about this game is the manner in which the opposing sides gather about and urge the plays, much as dice-throwers on a Louisiana dock would do. Pointing their two forefingers at the player say coaxingly: "O-han-dah, o-han-dah"—all black—or "Hun-je, hun-je"—all white. The opponents even more fiercely shout "Schaa-ah" and "Tek-i-ne-ta-weh, tek-i-ne-ta-weh"—two of a kind. This game may last for twenty-four hours, but the excitement never flags.—S. C. Simms in Chicago Tribune.

Is a Quack Doctor More Dangerous than a Quack Plumber?

When you are sick why is it that you do not peddle out the job of dosing you, to the lowest bidder? You would get it done much cheaper than your family physician would do it, but some QUACK DOCTOR would get the job. Your plumbing is of vital importance and you can no more afford to have your plumbing done by a quack plumber than to call in a quack doctor when sick.

Give us your work and it will be done properly and price will be reasonable.

327 SOUTH ELM STREET.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be aghast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

BLOOD POISON.

Mercury AND Potash Make Wrecks, Not Cures

In some cases the external signs of Contagious Blood Poison are so slight that the victim is firmly within the grasp of the monster before the true nature of the disease is known. In other cases the blood is quickly filled with this poisonous virus and the swollen glands, mucus patches in the mouth, sores on scalp, ulcers on tongue, sore throat, eruptions on skin, copper colored splotches, and falling hair and eyebrows leave no room for doubt, as these are all unmistakable signs of Contagious Blood Poison.

Doctors still prescribe mercury and potash as the only cure for Blood Poison. These poisonous minerals never yet made a complete and permanent cure of Contagious Blood Poison. They drive the disease back into the system, cover it up for a while, but it breaks out again in worse form. These powerful minerals produce mercurial rheumatism and the most offensive sores and ulcers, causing the joints to stiffen and finger nails to drop off. Mercury and potash make wrecks, not cures, and those who have been dosed with these drugs are never after free from aches and pain.

S. S. S. acts in an entirely different manner, being a purely vegetable remedy; it forces the poison out of the system, and instead of tearing down, builds up and invigorates the general health. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this specific virus, and therefore the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. No matter in what stage or how hopeless the case may appear, even though pronounced incurable by the doctors, S. S. S. can be relied upon to make a rapid, permanent cure. S. S. S. is not a new, untried remedy; an experience of nearly fifty years has proven it a sure and unfailing cure for this disease. It is the only purely vegetable blood medicine known.

Mr. H. L. Myers, 100 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do me no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. The large, red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass."

STAGING THE TRUST ISSUE.

The Republicans are trying as hard to outrun the Democrats in proving that the G. O. P. is the only genuine enemy of trusts, as the Democrats tried in 1896 to prove that they were better "friends" of silver than the Populists were. There is a well grounded belief that the trust owners have too high a position in Republican influence to allow the party to do much harm, and are allowing all the sputtering and pretended opposition merely for campaign consumption. There is no doubt of the reasonableness of this view, as there is no doubt that the Republican platform will contain an anti-trust plank. If so, it will be there merely as Mr. McKinley's international bimetallic plank was put in the last one, which Mr. Bryan quite neatly turned into a small boomerang for them by saying that it admitted the principle of bimetallism but showed that the Republicans were not brave enough to come out squarely for it.

The sentiment of the country seems to be as expressed by the Statesville Landmark, that "the only hope of the people to regulate or control them is through the Democratic party." This sentiment is feared by the Republicans and their activity to outdo the Democrats is correspondingly great. Their last effort, as noted at the time, was killed in the House last Friday, and in the killing of their resolution they perhaps got more buncombe than could have been obtained by its passage. The measure was a resolution proposing to submit to the legislatures of the various States for ratification, an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which would give to Congress the power to regulate trusts. Failing in getting the two-thirds votes necessary to submit a proposed amendment to the States, the amendment was lost. The Democrats and Populists defeated the measure on the ground that it took from the individual States the power of such anti-trust legislation as they might see fit to pass. They proposed to vote for it on condition that it be amended by a clause declaring that no such rights should be surrendered by the States.

Democrats further claimed that this was nothing but a grand stand play by the Republicans, anyhow, and that if they were sincere they would submit to the amending clause, which would make it that much harder against the trusts. The Republicans can now go out and say that they are sincere, and showed their sincerity by originating and supporting a measure that would have killed trusts, and that the Democrats defeated it. That will be a pretty good re-staging of the old issue, and will no doubt serve the purpose for which it was intended.

DR. ABBOTT ON SUFFRAGE.

We account it worth something that a man like Dr. Lyman Abbott, the eminent preacher, critic and editor, who was so long pastor of Henry Ward Beecher's church, and is now editor of the Outlook, should be asked to come to one of our college commencements, and that he should select such a subject for his sermon as that taken yesterday at Trinity—"The True meaning of Service." In the course of the sermon he took occasion to refer to the much talked of "manhood suffrage," which is just occupying so much space in Northern journals and in the mouths of Southern Republican politicians. Dr. Abbott said:

"But this I will say, that a self-government which breeds corruption and anarchy, as did this carpet-bag government in the South, is not good government; and is not made good government because it is founded on what men can call universal suffrage; and if today Americans in the North seem to be apathetic in the presence of violation of political rights in the South, it is because deep down in our minds we are convinced that what is wanted is good government as the end, not self-government except as a means to that end. No man has thrown more light on the race problem than one of the negro race himself, Booker T. Washington, and I think I might run what he has said in this one sentence: "We believe in manhood suffrage, but manhood must come first and suffrage afterwards; not suffrage first and manhood last."

We do not refer to this for the purpose of trying to get a partisan advantage out of it, but simply to the fact that so eminent a man as Dr. Abbott should at this time give such a clear definition of what "manhood suffrage" should be. Any other definition of it is silly, absurd and unnatural. The words mean, as he suggests, that the manhood idea is as necessary as the suffrage.

Some of the negroes about Durham seem to have an idea that the present taking of the census is in some way connected with the proposed constitutional amendment in this State. A census enumerator tells us that several have asked him if this is not so, and one thing that makes them think is this the question of whether they can read and write.—Durham Sun.

If Democrats had the job of taking the census the thing would be complete.

REASON HE DIDN'T

Tell Her That He Saw Her Sister Jane Down Town.

"I didn't tell you, did I, Mildred," said Mr. Cavil to his wife, "that I saw your sister Jane down town one day this week?"

"No; you didn't, Charles Augustus Cavil," replied Mrs. Cavil. "Why didn't you?"

"Well, you see——"

"Yes; I see. You met the only sister I have in the world, and, instead of coming straight home and telling me about it, as any respectable husband would have done, the same day, you keep the matter secret a whole week, and then ask, carelessly, if you have mentioned the fact that you saw her."

"But, my dear——"

"Don't but me, Charles Augustus Cavil. I have no doubt that she sent me a mesage by you, and you not only failed to deliver it, but by this time you have forgotten what it was about. Tell me if this isn't the case."

"My dear, it was this way—"

"Don't tell me it was that way, Charles Agustus Cavil. I know exactly how it was. You simply didn't care a straw whether I knew that you had seen sister Jane or not, or you would not have waited a whole week to tell me you had seen her."

"But I didn't say I saw her," Mr. Cavil said at length.

"Then I'd like to knew what you did say, Charles Agustus Cavil."

"I asked you if I told you that I saw her," explained Mr. Cavil.

"Well, why didn't you tell me?"

"The reason I didn't tell you was because I didn't see her. That's all."

Mrs. Cavil gasped and was speechless.—Harper's Bazar..

THRIFT OF A BLOOD-SELLER.

The Enterprise of a Man Who Has Good, Rich Yankee Blood to Dispose of.

New York Sun.

Joseph A. Reynolds, who wrote to Supt. O'Rouke of Bellevue Hospital on Friday that he wanted to sell $15 or $20 worth of good, rich Yankee blood to some ready person in order that he might buy food and medicine for his sick wife, was very happy yesterday, and his wife had evidently gotten over her illness. Nobody has applied for her husband's blood, but according to the janitress of the house, hard times have vanished, the letter box has been stuffed with letters for Reynolds and messenger boys are leaving envelopes all day.

Reynolds doesn't own up to quite so many letters as this. He specifies four, two of which contained money. He said yesterday:

"Some downtown merchant, whose name I prefer not to disclose, sent me $5. That is all the money I have except 50 cents which Russel Sage sent."

"Oh, what do you want to say that for?" broke in Mrs. Reynolds, who was brimming over with mirth.

"Well, it goes, just the same," said Reynolds. "Then a newspaper man paid me $6 for a story."

The reporter asked if Reynolds hadn't a sister on the stage.

"Oh yes," said Reynolds, "You mean Marie Allen. You know who she is? She is the girl who thrashed Charlie Bigelow down at the Manhattan, where he was playing with Anna Held. You remember that Bigelow got a dose of iodoform? Well, I'm the man that did it. I will show you the iodoform gun."

Reynolds went into another room—they have three rooms—and brought out an enormous syringe.

"That's the gun," he said, "I am saving it as a relic. Marie has gone to Paris now with the 'Beauty Show.'"

The small boys of the neighborhood, since Reynolds' letter was made public, gather in front of the house and chant:

Yankee blood; Yankee blood;
Yankee blood for pay.
We've got blood,
We've got blood,
How much do you want today?

Then they stick toothpicks in the electric push button and run. This may partly explain the hostile attitude of the janitress and her intimations that nothing is too good for the Reynoldses, not even champagne. "Sick and poor!" she sniffed scornfully.

DECLARATIONS OF LOVE.

Various Ways in Which Proposals Were Made in 100 Love Stories.

Some one with a weakness for statistics has waded through 100 standard love stories and tabulated the various ways in which lovers behave in popping the question. In 100 cases where the proposal was accepted no less than 67 gentlemen kissed the lady and began "all of a sudden." Eighty-one declared they could not live without her, while seventy-two held the girl's hand and thirty-six took her in their arms.

Twenty-six lovers sat down to put the question, four fidgeted about with their handkerchiefs—which three afterward required to wipe away the tears of joy; three stood on one foot, and the same number "reclined on the grass;" only four thought it necessary to go down on both knees, but twice as many knelt on one. In thirty-two cases kissing took place. Only four kissed the girl on the cheek, but ten saluted the fair one's curls! Three kissed her eyes, two her hands, one the top of her head, one her nose (by mistake), and one her shawl.

The behavior of the women is equally interesting. Eighty-seven knew something was coming and sank into the gentleman's arms, sixty-one cushioned their heads against his manly bosom, while twelve preferred his shoulder. One sank back into a chair, and no less than eleven clasped their arms around his neck. The eyes of seventy-two were full of love, seven had eyes moist and limpid, and the optics of two were dry. Forty-eight wept aloud and six shed silent tears of joy.

Twenty-seven fumbled with their gloves, fans and flowers, twelve buried their faces in their hands and one struggled not to be kissed. On the other hand, six girls kissed the man first. Nine rushed from the room to tell somebody and five giggled hysterically. Only three were pale and agitated, but eighteen were flushed. Three told their lovers "to ask papa," and one actually sneezed (shades of Venus!) and one (a widow), said, "Yes, but don't be silly."—Pittsburg Despatch.

"How was Admiral's Dewey's naval rank reduced when he got married?" "He became Mrs. Dewey's second mate."—Argonaut.

GROWTH OF THE LOBSTER.

Observations of a Professor of Biology.

THE BIG CLAW OR HAND.

Enemies of the Young Lobster—Casting a Claw is an Easy Matter—A Good Many Coats in One Season.

Viewed from the standpoint of the eater, the point of greatest interest to both the lobster and the man is the claw. A person named Aristole, who studied the European lobster—there is such a thing in Europe, as those who have watched the British generals in South Africa may have suspected—said that it was merely a matter of chance whether the crushing claw appeared on the right side or the left side of the breast. Aristotle meant well, but he didn't know it all. It isn't a matter of chance. The members of the same brood are always provided with this big claw or hand on the same side. They are all either right-handed or left-handed. But Aristotle was right in a way, for, apart from the steady rule that all members of a brood are supplied with hands on the same side, the large claw occurs about as frequently on one side of the species as it does on the other. Thus in 2,433 lobsters that were examined by Francis Hobart Herrick, professor of biology in Adelbert College of the Western Reserve University, acting for the United States Fish Commission, 1,164 had the crushing claw on the right side and 1,266 had it on the left side. Only three had similar claws on both sides.

In these three the claws were neither crushing claws proper or cutting claws. They were combinations of both. The normal crushing claw is a weapon that is not to be despised. Helpless as it looks when the lobster is on land, in the water he can use it like lightning, and it has been estimated that some of the giants could crush a man's arm with it.

These claws, as well as the legs and other appendages, can be cast by the lobster, in which respect he is like the crab. It is not believed, however, that he can do so at will, but that the act is rather more due to a muscular spasm caused by fright or pain. This casting of limbs is not important in a commercial sense in the case of crabs, but in the case of the lobster it is different, for no restaurant keeper would wish to set a clawless "bird" before his guests. Yet the habit of casting a claw, and particularly the valuable big crusher, is distressingly common. Out of a hundred lobsters taken in Narragansett Bay for the United States Fish Commission, twenty-five were without the big claw, and many were without either claw. In 1777 Travis wrote that lobsters shed their claws so freely on being frightened that they even cast them if it thundered after they were in the boat. "I am told," said he, "that they will do the same if a big gun is fired, and that when men-of-war meet a lobster boat a jocular threat is used that if the master does not sell them good lobsters they will salute him."

When the lobster hatches from the egg it is hardly a third of an inch long. It rises to the surface at once, and there leads a free swimming life for a few weeks. In this it is utterly unlike the adult, which never swims on the surface normally, but lives entirely on the bottom.

After the larval stage is ended the little lobster sinks to the bottom. Now it resembles the adult exactly, but it is only about half an inch long.

When they are three or four inches long they begin to leave the rock piles and dig little caves for themselves under stones, from which they can sally forth when they see prey, and into which they can retreat safely when they sight a foe.

Such foes are so numerous from the time the egg is deposited to the end that they do not give him any rest. A faint idea of the fierceness of the hunt after the unfortunate sea animal may be gathered from Professor Herrick's computation that if only two out of every ten thousand hatched lobsters were permitted to live it would be enought to maintain the species at an equilibrium. Yet even this small number does not survive. When the female or hen lobster is carrying the eggs, eels hang to her and eat them, often stripping the mother clean in one night. Codfish often are caught with their stomachs filled with young lobsters. Other fish that prey on them are recorded by the United States Fish Commission thus: Dusky shark, dogfish, sand shark, sting ray, peaked-nosed skate, rabbit fish, striped bass and tautog.—N. Y. Press.

BEING THE ICE MAN.

One of Them Tells Why His Vocation is No Perennial Picnic.

A hundred members of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association met and dined at the Hotel Bellevue the other day, it being their second annual affair of this nature. The President of the association, the Hon. William M. Eaton of Quincy, presided. Speaking of the ice business, Elmer H. Bright of Boston, Secretary and Treasurer of the association, said:

"The ice men differ in business from almost any other line. Their acquaintance with one another has been limited; so last year we resolved that it would be a benefit to all to meet once a year and discuss the ice situation. I do not believe there is any business done where the amount of money invested is so large and the profit so comparatively small as it is in ours. The prices of iron, lumber, horses, and all the material that goes to make up an ice plant, have had considerable advance, but the price of ice has not advanced a cent. There are a number of men in the business who are in very good circumstances, but you will find that they are all men well along in years, who made their money years ago, when profit was greater. Conditions since then have changed materially. The large customers had their ice boxes on the floors of their stores or places; now they are so high up that where in former years one man could do the work it takes two now, and in a great many cases more. This, of course, all means a very considerable increase in cost of putting out ice, and labor in our business is one of the greatest problems that we have to deal with.

"The public, as a class, is very inconsiderate. I do not know that it intends to be but I suppose it is through thoughtlessness. If the people would stop and think that they, like their neighbors, want a much larger quantity of ice on hot mornings in summer, particularly Saturday and Monday, and that for this reason it takes so much longer to deliver the ice, I think they would be reasonable and not feel abused at a little waiting.

"We are able to load on wagons only about one-half of the ice that the icehouse holds; in some places not over 40 per cent. Our teams, starting out very early in the morning and not getting in in hot weather until very late at night, make it a hard business to follow and handle. The ice man has plenty to do in the very hottest and the very coldest weather. On the whole, it is not a business offering untold inducements to men to go into it."—Boston Transcript.

American Products.

Consul James Boyle, writing from Liverpool under the date of February 15, says there have recently been a number of communications and articles in the Liverpool papers drawing attention to the fact that American manufactures, particularly in specialties, had been accepted by English purchasers in preference to those of home production, the reason given being that the American goods were better made and handier than the home goods and were fully as cheap. Of late, there has been a tendency on the part of English critics to claim that American manufactures were preferred simply because they were cheap, and it was often added they were "nasty" as well as cheap. The statements referred to at the commencement of this report refute this criticism, and American manufacturers can now find plenty of champions in England who base their support on the ground of actual superiority, both of workmanship and adaptability.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.
For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.
MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

HUMAN SKULL IN A SECRET PASSAGE

Discovery Made in the Colonial Mansion of the Harrisons, in Lower Brandon, Virginia.

Richmond Dispatch.

A secret passage has been discovered at Lower Brandon, the ancient colonial mansion which has been the home of the Harrisons of Virginia for more than a century. While hanging a picture yesterday, Miss Gulie Harrison unknowingly touched a secret spring, and a panel slid back disclosing a dark passage. The young lady called several members of the family and an investigation was made of the gloomy recess. It extended some distance back and along the massive wall of the house. Dust lay thick on the walls and along the stone floor of the passage. No discovery rewarded the searchers until the very end was reached. Here from a staple in the wall depended a rusty chain, and on the floor beneath lay a human skull. In regular lines lay fragments which quickly vanished when touched, seeming to have been the remains of other portions of the human frame.

The present members of the Harrison family had no idea heretofore of the existance of any legend extant of a cruel ancestor who chained to the wall some enemy and left him there to die of hunger and thirst. The Harrisons of lower Brandon are related to former President Benjamin Harrison, and also to Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago. While on a visit to Virginia some months ago Mayor Harrison went down to Lower Brandon and paid a short visit there. It was near this place that Benjamin Harrison, while on a hunting trip during his occupancy of the presidential chair, shot and killed by mistake, a pig, and promptly reimbursed the owner. Nearly all of the colonial mansions on the lower James have secret passages, which were used when the Indians became dangerous. In one of them Nathaniel Bacon while fleeing from the wrath of Sir. William Berkeley, was hidden for a time.

UNCERTAIN TELEPHONES.

They Are Cheap in Switzerland But They Drive Strangers Mad.

"I noticed some reference in the paper the other day to the cheapness of telephone service in Switzerland," said a New Orleans broker recently returned from an extended visit abroad. "I can vouch for the fact that the tolls are very low, but the way the exchanges are run is well calculated to drive a man to drink. While I was at Berne last fall I desired to 'phone to a friend who was in a small village in the adjoining canton, although forty miles distant. I was told that I would find a public instrument at the post-office, and with a good deal of difficulty I located the 'bureau,' as they termed it, in a suite of rooms up stairs. A very military-looking old gentleman with a white moustache received me and listened politely to my request. It was then about ten in the morning, and he informed me with many apologies that I would have to call again, as the line was only open between two and four. I was annoyed, but presented myself on time, and was then put through a course of interrogations that reminded me of an application for life insurance.

"When I had satisfied the old gentleman that I was a harmless American crank, and that my intentions were strictly honorable, he called up the village exchange and directed them to send a messenger to the hotel after my friend. Another long wait ensued, and when the bell finally rang the manager had a mysterious confab in monosyllables with the other end of the line. 'I am very sorry,' he said at last, 'but your friend will not be permitted to use the telephone today; he has forgotten to bring his passport.' That was the last straw, and I—well, I said things, picturesque things, lurid things. The old gentleman told me it was necessary to observe precautions to prevent the service being used by military spies. I never got to talk with my friend, but learned that the charge would have been only four cents for three minutes."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A paper bicycle has now invaded the field. Paper fibre, similar to that sometimes used in the manufacture of railway carriage wheels, is employed for tubing, and is as strong as any in use. A factory is said to be contemplated for the production of bicycles of this sort.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.
